A friend sent me a clipping from a small city—it dealt with the opening of the picture, "Everybody's Old Man." The writer was quite severe in his analysis. He didn't like the film. Passionately, he didn't like the film. Passionately, he didn't care for me, who played a part in it.

The joke was that the theater where the picture was to have been shown burned down just about the time the paper went to press, and the picture wasn't ever shown in that town.

The "Great Names" Game

Here's an opportunity to WIN $4,000.00 CASH—First Prize in The Atlanta Constitution's "GREAT NAMES" Game. In order to win a prize you must name each cartoon of a series of 84. Each cartoon represents a Name, and it's an enjoyable job to find which Name is correct. To do so, study the details of each cartoon carefully. Then look at the list of suggested names under the cartoon," and see if you can find the Name it represents. If you're just entering the game, mail the coupon in the lower right-hand corner, to obtain all the cartoons that have appeared thus far. Submit your answers in series of seven and follow the simple rules of the game. Clip and save the daily cartoons for your own reference. NOW IT'S YOUR TURN TO WIN $4,000.00. GO AFTER IT! WIN IT!

ENCLOSE 10 CENTS IN COIN WITH EACH WEEKLY SERIES

Answers are to be submitted in weekly series of seven. A series consists of cartoons appearing each Sunday through Saturday consecutively. With each weekly series of seven answers enclose 10 cents in coin. This remittance is required under the rules of the contest fo qualify you for a prize and in return you will receive a master print of the week's featured cartoon picture, at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

1. The "GREAT NAMES" contest is open to every reader of The Atlanta Constitution being a bona fide resident of either the state of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama or Florida, with the exception of employes of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and members of their families and with the further, exception of any person who has won $1.500 or more in any previous newspaper contest.

NOTE: You do not need to be a regular subscriber, you may purchase The Atlanta Constitution each day at your news stand.

won $1.500 or more in any previous newspaper contest.

NOTE: You do not need to be a regular subscriber, you may purchase The Atlanta Constitution each day at your news stand.

2. Beginning Sunday, June 14, 1936, and continuing each day for 12 weeks. The Atlanta Constitution will publish a cartoon. Each cartoon will in some way suggest or represent a name. The name may be that of a person, city, state, nation, book, song or motion picture.

3. The Atlanta Constitution will award a First Prize of $4,000 as agrt f $6,000 in prizes to the person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate name to each of the $4 cartoons and in all other ways conforming to these Official Rules. The person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate names to all $4 cartoons and otherwise complying with these Official Rules shall be eligible for First Prize. The person or persons submitting the next nearest correct solution to the $4 cartoons and otherwise complying with all these official Rules shall be eligible for additional prizes in order of the correctness of their anawers.

Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your anawers. Just name the cartoons in accordance with the rules.

5. In case of ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are persons tied before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution; that is, if two or more persons tie in submitting the correct or nearest correct names to the $4 cartoons, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them and will be awarded in the order of the correctness of such contest-nats (without cost) to a second and, if necessary, a third or fourth series of cartoons. In the event of final ties, a prize identical with that tied for will be awarded to each tying contestant.

5. To excedite filling, answers or solutions in this contest should be submitted as follows: At the end of each week, during which a series of seven cartoons will have been printed in The Atlanta Constitution, in a unit. Solutions to this contest are to be submitted in a series, seve

Mr. Mallon starts July 18 on his annual vacation. His daily column will be resumed here Monday, August 3.

GETTING STARTED WASHINGTON, July 14.-The first small step toward Agriculture Secretary Wallace's prophesied new nation, "The Co-operative Commonwealth," is being nodestly taken by a generally unnoticed social democratic agency, the Rural Electrification Administration.

While Mr. Wallace is writing fluently about the coming co-operative state and President Roosevelt's special mission is in Europe studying in-novations along that line, the REA is doing something about it in a prac-side the scattered communities affected, but, if you will scan them at random, you will find such things as these: A $105,000 loan to the Grand Valley Water Users' Association in Colorado to build 104 miles of electric lines; $50,000 loan to Crisp county, Georgia, farmers, permitting them to organize a power line co-operative; $45,000 to the Boone Valley Electric Co-operative in Iowa; $90,000 to the Consumers' Co-operative in Prince Frederick, Maryland; an initial advance of $50,000 to put the strong Midland Wholesale Cooperative of Minnesota into the power business through the Federated Electric Co-operatives of Minneapolis: amalgamation of three co-operatives around Piqua, Ohio, into the Pioneer Rural Electric Co-operative, inc., under an REA loan of $30,000 for wiring installations, etc., etc. Put them all together and you have widespread federal financing for co-ops in the consumer field for the first time.

SCOPE A special compilation made by REA of its allotments up to date shows these totals: Loans to co-ops, $10,224,676 to build 639 miles of power lines

Loans to power districts and one state (South Carolina), $2,596,328. Loans to private companies, $1,346,450. COMPETITION These figures on the wall have been read aright by the private power companies. They are enlarging their rural business as fast as they can, but, as the figures indicate, they are doing most of it with their own money. They cannot do much in the face of such competition as, for instance, can be offered by the Porter Electric Company, a co-op in Rock county, Wisconsin. It is controlled by consumer-stockholders, none of whom own more than three shares. None of its officers receives a salary except the secretary-treasurer, who gets $90 a year-yes, a year. The original 16 miles of line was built by the farmer-stockholders themselves. They buy current at the Stoughton hydro plant for 6.02 cents per kilowatt-hour and sell it to themselves at 5 cents for the first 50 kilowatt-hours per month and 3 cents per additional KWH, plus $1.50 line And this business nets them a regular 8 per cent dividend on their FREEDOM Sweetest break the power co-ops have received, aside from the windfall of unasked federal funds, is the REA legal opinion that they are not generally subject to the jurisdiction of the state power commissions, as the private companies are. Court decisions, in California, Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, indicate that co-operatives, serving only their own members, and not the general public, are not subject to the general jurisdiction of their respective commissions. Indiana and Virginia co-operatives are expressly subject to jurisdiction of the respective commissions by law.

They are bewildered by the sight of handshaking, assuming it to signify that when your right hand grows tired your friends help you hold it. "Yet handshaking in many forms is an old and honorable custom. To join hands in antiquity was equivalent to signing a peace treaty. A handclasp is introduced into the marriage ceremony among the Hindus and sometimes among Christians. A Chinese, to show how pleased he is to encounter you, shakes his own hands. In the Banks Islands of the Pacific, a man hooks the middle finger of his right hand with yours and pulls it away with a crack. The strange white Ainu people of Japan make you welcome by rubbing their own palms together and stroking their beards. A Mohammedan, according to ancient custom, may shake hands with your Mohammedan, according to ancient custom, may shake hands with you with thumbs up, then touch his breast, forehead and lips with his hand to isgnify that you are cherished in his heart and thoughts and are entitled to a bit of osculation.

"The military salute is said to have originated like the handshake as a formal declaration of one's innocence of any hostile intention. Whether vertical or horizontal, whether just two fingers or a whole handful, the salute is an ostentatious baring of the weapon hand to show that no spears, javelins, daggers, pistols, or machine guns are concealed therein.

When the air is warm and moist (it is not the h. but the h., as you may have heard before) the surface blood vessels relax or dilate and the skin is flushed with blood—the body trying to cool itself. There is a fall of about 10 millimeters of mercury in blood pressure as a result of the relaxation of the miles of tiny arterioles and the overfilling of the capillary spaces in the skin. The nearer the atmospheric temperature approaches the 90 degrees F. in which the clothed body lives, the less heat can the body give off by conless heat can the body give off by con-duction and the more must the cool-ing of the body depend on evapora-tion of sweat from the surface—not so much the sweat you can see and feel as the insensible sweat.

The surface flushing tends to make The surface flushing tends to make one feel more or less somnolent. Everybody has experienced the soporific influence of warmth applied to the skin—as in hot baths, hot mustard foot baths, toasting the feet before a fire. The let-down in blood pressure contributes toward a feeling of depression and disinclination to work or play, physical and mental flaccidity, enervation.

"At this time an increase can be made equitably because reserves are widely distributed." he said.

"Unless large additional increases In reserves occur through gold imports or otherwise, no occasion for further adjustment in reserve requirements is likely to arise in the near future."

The increase in reserve requirements means that bankers will have less money on hand which will, therefore, "make them more cautious." At pres-ent there are enough excess reserves to provide for $10,000,000,000 in credit ent there are enough excess reserves to provide for $10,000,000,000 in credit expansion. But with this, the largest amount of reserves ever on hand, there is no comparable investment field. Bankers find it difficult to find good credit risks among people who desire credit. The banks are swelling their portfolios with government bonds.

Every reserve bank member is required to put a certain percentage of its deposits in the federal reserve system. Banks get no interest on these deposits. But these reserve banks receive about 6 per cent on their membership shares. However, there is little pation between reserve deposits and the interest on membership certificates. For instance, a bank is required to subscribe to a certain number of federal reserve shares when it is incorporated. The number of shares is set by law at a certain percentage of the capital stock. Thus a bank may have to subscribe to 50 or 500,000 dollars worth of membership certificates, but they may have three or four million delars deposited by reserve requirements.

The reserve board under the new plan, can buy more government bonds, and get the interest on them, and the banks will be able to buy less government bonds under the new reserve requirements.

Popular Left Fielder 2d in League in Stolen Bases; Hitting .309.

By Jack Troy.

EN ROUTE TO NEW ORLEANS FOR PELICAN SERIES, July 14.— Sheriff Dave Harris, who tripled to drive in all three Cracker runs in Monday night's game at Birmingham, today was sold to Montreal for a strictly cash consideration.

Harris, who came to the Crackers the first of last year from Albany, in the International league, left the team tonight to return to Atlanta. He will join Montreal immediately.

The move may not be a popular one with Atlanta fans. The Sheriff was well-liked and his hitting, particularly in the pinch, was most val-

President Earl Mann is along on the trip. He expects the Crackers to reassert themselves in the Pelican series.

"This series has a most important hearing on the race," declared President Mann "It will either mean a comfortable lead for us or a fighting finish. I hope it will be the former," en route in the person of Big Jim Lindsey, who has recovered from an attack of malaria and declares he feels better than he has in years. Moore said that Hamel wasn't quite ready to play again except in an emergency, but he will be ready to join the team by the time the Crackers get back to Atlanta.

Golfers who rarely, if ever, go out of bounds at No. 1 at Capital City, came up yesterday and popped one, or two, and sometimes three, out of bounds.

They are the same golfers, using the same clubs the same balls, and playing the same course they play several times each week. But something happens. That little devil called pressure

IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE

Dr. Henry Compton, who plays steadily in the 80's, ran into one of those things which golf produces now and then just to prove how exasperating the game can be.

It is almost incomprehensible how many peculiar things can happen when one has only a golf club and a ball to accomplish the incomprehensible. Dr. Compton, coming to the ninth, was bunkered to the left of the green with his second shot. He took out his sand wedge and steadied himself for the shot. As he swung his foot slipped and the ball got up and very deliberately sailed completely over the club-

Old Pappy Beckett had put the markers far back on the tees and he had himself a real course, a he-man course with hair on its chest, for the boys to shoot at. They were shooting. And they were shooting well in a very narrow range. So narrow that good, average scores didn't get one into the tournament. But no one was dallying around in the 60's. And the par igures were standing up. No one was shoving them around. "It's de pencil and paper day," said one of the caddies. Meaning, of course, that the day saw no conceded putts and thatevery hole went down on the card as played. The pressure does something.

I don't think he played a bad game. Even in the rout at California he was a good guard. But I recall him best at Chapel Hill, N. C., the Saturday after Georgia had beaten Yale at Athens in 1929.

The game had swung this way and that. And North Carolina had taken the lead. And there came a long march with Ripper Roberts carrying the ball—two out of three times through the hole which the raging Leathers opened.

That was 1929. The years do get along. And now Red Leathers is a young businessman in Athens. He plays golf on Saturday afternoon and Sunday. And looks forward to the state tournament.

Raines, Milo Promise Rough Battle Tonight

Late efforts to ban his pile driver having failed, Dick Raines, the one-man riot squad from Texas, is primed for Milo Steinborn tonight in their big heavyweight attraction at Ponce de Leon park. Interest is running high in the match. Steinborn being considered a worthy opponent for his 240-pound foeman, and if advance seat sales are a criterion, a record crowd for the season will be on hand at 8:30.

The match promises to be plenty rough. While the German veteran does not go in for underhanded methods and questionable tactics, as does the villianous Raines, nevertheless he dishes out plenty of punishment. It will be a duel of the bear hug vs. the pile driver, and promises to be one of extraordinary inverest.

Raines is undefeated bere this season. In fact, in his last three matches

Extension of the closing date for entries in the First National Safe Driver motorcade to New York city from July 15 to midnight on July 22 was announced yesterday by Jack Strouss, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, who said the American Automobile Association had extended the closing date for entries all over the United States because of nation-wide interest in the contest.

Georgians will, therefore, have another week to get their applications into the office of the Atlanta Motor Club at the Biltmore hotel. Winner of the contest will receive a free trip to New York with all expenses paid.

Judges appointed by Robert P. McLarty, president of the Atlanta Motor club, are: Major General Van Horn Moseley. Clark Howell Jr. and Russell R. Whitman.

Rules require that the applicant must have driven a private passenger automobile for 10 years; must have covered at least 50,000 miles in the last 10 years; must have a clean accident record and not be convicted of

TOWNSEND SHAKE-UP SLATED AT CONVENTION

Doctor Would Be Stripped of Power To Appoint Directors.

CLEVELAND, July 14.-(P)-A drastic revision in the administrative setup of the Townsend old-age pension organization was announced today on the eve of the second Townsend national convention.

Under the plan, Dr. F. E. Town send, founder of the movement, would send, founder of the movement, would be stripped of his power to appoint members of the board of directors.

So sweeping is the reorganization plan that Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., corporate body of the Townsend movement, will disappear entirely and in its place will appear a new corporation, Townsend Recovery Plan, Inc.

Power to name the 15 members of the board of directors will pass to the "citizens maximi," the national advisory board of one member from each visory board of one member from each state, chosen at state conventions. Details of the plan have yet to be worked out, but Dr. Townsend said its purpose was to expand the government of the movement and "democratize" it. He indicated the reorganization might be considered preparatory to the formation of a Townsend political party after the November elections.

Announcement of the revision was read to newsmen by the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith.

lower Acres Forms Setting Of Garden Club Board Meeting

By Sally Forth.

TRS. DONALD HASTINGS called the executive board members of the Garden Club of Georgia together at her lovely country home, lower Acres, yesterday for the first meeting of her administration president. The gardens at Flower Acres live strictly up to their me at the moment, for they are a riot of colorful bloom provided beds and masses of phlox, roses, petunias, gladioli, lemon lilies d verbena. The pergolas in the rose gardens are covered with mernaid roses in full bloom, which, in case you aren't familiar with the ariety, are lovely single white roses with deep gold stamens.

At 11 o'clock the group assembled and got down to the serious usiness of plotting the eradication of billboards which offend the esthetic sense of the beauty-craving souls of horticulturists. For rs. Hastings and her newly appointed board members have assigned emselves the gigantic task of beautifying Georgia highways.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Over a year ago I packed up and left my husband after having been married 19 years. I took the children, one 18 and the other 16, and went to live with my relatives. I also took all the furniture. My oldest boy got a job and I went to work. The reason for my leaving was my husband's heavy drinking. I guess I lost my head. He has tried many times to get in touch with us but I told the boys not to have anything to do with him because I didn't want him back. He has stopped writing We haven't heard from him in six months. GARBLED MESSAGES. Half of the minor tragedies of life, I believe, are caused by ill chosen words—words that do not convey to the listener the true meaning of the speaker. Just so in contract, Players make certain bids on the naive assumption that they are sending an explicit message to partner; the message may indeed he explicit, but diametrically opposite from the bidder's

1. "I, playing South, suspected East's bid of being psychic, and pre-emted to shut off communication be-tween opponents, at the same time visualizing game for our side. Was my bid sound? If not what was the proper bid?

2. "Was my partner justified in passing with his strong trump support—one and one-half honor tricks, and opponent's suit well stopped? What should he have bid?

What should he have bid?

Referring first to the three spade bid and the explanation thereof, the inconsistency fairly leaps at one. If South, "suspected a psychic" why should he fear the opponents "getting together?" Far better to encourage it! With South's bone-crusher, including a good holding in opponent's bid suit, there was every reason to urge, rather than dissuade West to "join the party." It must not be understood by this that I indorse South's suspicion of a psychic. I am merely pointing out that if he thought a certain way he should have acted consistently.

Now, as to the other part of his statement that "at the same time he visualized game for his side." I should think he would! But he didn't go about reaching it in the right way. His three spade bid undoubtedly conveyed to partner the idea that he (South) held such a hand as:

Spades, A K 10 9 8 7 5; Heart, 6; Diamonds, Q J 10 4; Clubs, 2.

This would have been ideal for "shutout purposes, containing little defensive strength, but about seven to eight playing tricks.

To express the strength actually held, South should have made a take-out double of one club. Even two spades, though a much stronger bid than a pre-emptive three spades, would not have done justice to South's back for another snift or two. It is a perfume doesn't lift you out of the cork which you lift out and snifted and in a minute I found myself goin; back for another snift or two. out double of one club. Even two spades, though a much stronger bid than a pre-emptive three spades, would not have done justice to South's hand. True the response to be expected from North was hearts, but there would be no danger in showing the spade suit at a higher level.

As to North being justified in his pass to three spades—it is a close point. Visualizing such a hand as the one sugested above (with which there would be no play for game), obviously a pass was correct. On the other hand, South's holding could be no stronger and yet fit much better, making a game a lay-down. All in all, it was probably unwise for North to "hang" one trick short of game. But the crux of the whole question is that North should not have been given a problem!

ly advances in response to firmer markets abroad were followed by partial reactions in cottop today.

October contracts, after selling up to 12.75, declined to 12.60 and closed at 12.61, with the general market steady, 3 to 5 points net higher.

Houses with foreign connections had buying orders at the opening, while there was trade buying and covering, or rebuying by recent sellers which sent active months about 15. to 17 points net higher during the foremoon.

The demand tapered off on the advance, however, and the market easied under realizing and scattered selling, promoted by expectations of a favorable weekly crop review tomorrow.

Udation. orthern district of Georgia yester-

Judge William H. Barrett, of Au-Judge William H. Barrett, of Augusta, who arrived in Atlanta yesterday morning, heard the motion to disbar. Lee and after no argument was offered by either of Lee's attorneys. Charles R. Reynolds, of Augusta, and James R. Venable, of Atlanta, he signed the order which disqualifies Lee as a practicing attorney in United States courts.

years in prison after a jury had convicted him on charges of using the mails to defraud.

If Judge Barrett refuses a new trial, Lee's lawyers have announced they will appeal the conviction. A bond to release Lee from Fulton tower will be asked if the supersedeas is granted.

Heating on the new trial motion had been set for July 26. Judge Barrett, who presided at the trial of Lee, will be on vacation at that time. It was first decided yesterday to set the hearing for some date in September, but Judge Barrett, who will be in Atlanta until late this afternoon, agreed to have the hearing this morning.

Lee is still confined in Fulton tower, none of the time he is spending there applying toward his three-year sentence.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(P)—Continued strength in utility stocks provided the high spot of interest in the curb market today.

Buyers of power, and light issues made their presence felt in the market right at the outset and despite substantial selling to clinch profits, the demand was sufficient to keep prices moving steadily upward until the close.

SCHOOL TEXTBOOK PURCHASE FOUGHT

Committee Recommendation Hit by Lowman; Amendment To Be Studied.

A battle over textbook purchases and authorization of a special committee to study the proposed 15-mill tax limitation's effect, if approved, on school finances yesterday were the major actions of the board of education.

George W. Lowman, eighth ward commissioner, led a fight on approval of a new list of books, recommended by a joint board, administration and teacher committee, assailing a recommendation that 28 various books by different authors be included for the first grade.

The Lost Works of W. Sidney Porter (O. Henry)

NEW YEAR'S EVE AND HOW IT CAME TO HOUSTON.

Sketched at Random as the Old Year Passed.

We that would probably welcome the new year should view it with the eye of an optimist, and sing its praises with the coated tongue of a penitent. We should dismiss from our hearts the cold precept that history repeats itself, and strive to believe that history repeats itself, and the new, let us put aside, it is possible, all knowledge to the contrary and revel in the fairy tale told by the merry belis.

We should be not to the cycle of years. No mortal tack can puncture that wheel. Old Father Time is an "scorcher," and he rides without lamp or warning bell. The years that are as milestones to us are as gravel spursed and an occasional night off, they serve as warnings to note the hours upon the face of a mighty clock upon which the hands move silently and are never turned back.

The new year is feminine. There is no question but that the world has no que

The last day of the year is generally spent in laying in as big a stock as possible of things suitable for use the next day for swearing-off purposes.

It is nearly 6 o'clock, and there is a lively crowd moving upon the side shopsirl, as neat and trim as a fash on plate. Her big hat plumes wave and her little boot heels beat a merry litts on New Year's Day, just after dinner, when we are full of good resolutions and turkey, to kneel down and solemnly affirm that we will never touch food again. The man who on the morning of the glad new year stands trembling with fear on the center table, while snakes and lizards merrily play hide and seek on the floor, finds no difficulty in forswearing the sparkling bowl. The darkbrown, copper-riveted taste which accompanies what is known to the medical profession as the new year tongue, is a great incentive to reform.

On his arm is a huge market basket, from which protrudes the cold, despairing legs of a turkey, from which the soul has fled. Two yards of celery trail behind him; turning greens, cauliflower and the alleged yellow yam nestle against his arm. On his brow is confusion; in his face are hung the scarlet banners of a guilty conscience; in his romantic eyes guilty conscience; in his romantic eyes she reads the telltale story of a bene-dict; by the hand he leads a cold-nosed but indisputable little boy. She elevates her charming head to a supercilious angle, snaps out to her-self the one word "Married!" and is gone.

He jerks the limp, sad corpse of the turkey to the other side, snatches the cold-nosed little boy about five feet through the air and vows that never again will he go to marketing during the joyous year of 1896.

It is New Year's Eve.

A citizen is restlessly pacing the floor of his sitting room. There is evidently some crisis near, for his brow is contracted, and his hands are nervously clasped and unclasped behind his back. He is waiting expectantly for something. Suddenly the door opens and his family physician

Two ladies are at a bargain counter, maintaining an animated conversation in low but dangerous tones.

"She sent me," says one of them, "a little old nickel-plated card receiver on Christmas Day, and I know she bought it at a racket store. Goodness knows, I never would have thought of sending her anything, but now I've got to return it, of course—the old deceitful thing—and I don't know what to get for her. Let's see—ohyes; I have it now. You know they say she used to be a chambermaid in a St. Louis hotel before she was married; I'll just send her this little silver pin with a broom on it. Wonder if she's bright enough to understand?"

"I hope so. I'm sure." says the other lady. "That reminds me that George gave me a nice new opera cloak for a Christmas present, and I just forgot all about him. What are those horn collar buttons worth?"

"Fifteen cents a dozen," says the salesman.

Viva el rey; el rey esta muerto!

The Spanish phrase looks better than the hakneyed French, and it is correct, having been carefully revised by one of the most reliable tamale dealers on Travis street. The old year is passing; let us stand in with the new. In happy Houston homes light feet are dancing away the hours "neath holly and mistletce, but outside stalk those who inherit want and care and misery, to whom the coming season brings nothing of hope or joy.

Two young men are wending their way up Preston street. One is holding the other by the arm and guiding his steps. The sidewalk seems to run

"Three?" says the citizen in a tone of horror, "Three!" He kneels on the floor and in fervent accents exclaims: "Tomorrow will be the new year and I hereby solemnly swear that—"

Breaking in upon his resolutions comes the merry chime of the New Year bells.

The people come and the people go. In the stores, looking over remnants of Christmas goods, are to be found that class of people who received presents on Christmas Day without giving any, and are now striving to make late and lame amends by returning the compliment on New Year's Day. The New Year's present is a delusion and contains about as much warmth and soul as a eulogy on the south by the New York Sun.

The game was interrupted by a steward who handed a radiogram to Major Martling. With quick, anxious movements the support marting. With quick, anxious movements the support ripped open the envelope and read: Chichicastenago, Guatemala. Document arrived safely. Will guard it until you arrive. Padre Dormund."

A bright, relieved smile spread over Martling's face, He lifted his eyes to Ula. "All's well," he said. Ula smiled. Raglan watched them through the corner of an eye. Had he been even half so clever as he was, he would have known the meaning of their elation.

HUMAN RIDDLES

That Have Vexed the World By VINCENT TOWNE.

THE CASE OF DEMETRIUS. | ed to Maryna Mniszek, a Polish girl Ivan the Terrible, the first ruler of noble family, and within the year of Russia to assume the title of czar, yielded up his black soul in 1584. His leder sôn and successor, Feodor, zas (eeble-minded, and the next heir to the throne was his younger son, Demetrius, a baby of two years. So the processor of Russia ell centrated their window to the central part of the processor of rius, a baby of two years. So the people of Russia all centered their hopes in this child who one day was to deliver them from the yoke held about their necks by an idiot. But Boris Godunoff, the prime minister, disposed of Feodor and proclaimed himself czar of Russia. Old Ivan's widow, the empress dowager, was imprisoned in a convent and young Demetrius was kept under guard in the town of Utilich. Boris Godunoff, the prime minister, disposed of Feodor and proclaimed himself czar of Russia. Old Ivan's widow, the empress dowager, was imprisoned in a convent and young De-

When Demetrius was a lad of nine all of his attendants were one day withdrawn and he was left alone to play in the courtyard. Suddenly a servant returning to the scene uttered a shriek of terror, and those who responded to her alarm found lying before them upon the ground a little boy with his throat cut from ear to ear, his features mutilated beyond recognition. The word was sent abroad through the empire that the sturdy little prince—the hope of the Russian populace—had been myste-riously murdered. There was universal mourning among the masses, but Boris Godunoff managed to retain his sceptre for the time being.

In those days there dwelt in Poland great prince, Adam Wisniowecki. after the murder of the child at Ugafter the murder of the child at Ug-lich, fell ill, and fearing death con-fessed to a Jesuit priest that he was none other than the rightful Czar Demetrius, alleged to have been the victim of that crime. According to this youth's story, the agent whom Boris Godunoff had sent to Uglich had smuggled him off to Poland after mutilating a peasant lad resembling him in a general way and leaving that him in a general way and leaving that child's body in the courtyard to de-ceive the populace. In Poland he had been reared as a peasant, but his memory of his identity had not been outgrown. He repeated his confession Wisniowecki and exhibited to that ince a diamond cross that had been e baptismal gift of little Demetrius, also a jeweled seal bearing the crest of that royal child. Believeing his servant's story Wis-niowecki lost no time in repeating it to Sigismund, the king of Poland, and, since that monarch was a bitter enemy of Russia, he laid plans to upset the throne of Boris by furthering the claims of the mysterious youth claiming to be the rightful czar. So Sigis mund equipped a Polish army, and, placing the young pretender at the head of it, sent him into Russia in hy some of the Russian populace, who halted the tyrannical usurper, Boris.

They rallied to the young invader's standard and victory seemed to be within his grasp when in Auto Body and Top Service 93-A within his grasp when, in a great battle on the plain of Dobrinichi, he suffered a serious defeat. In little more than a week later, however, Bor-is fell dead from poison and the al-leged Demetrius led his army trium-phant into the old capital of Moscow, where he demanded the crown.

The nobles at Moscow were more skeptical than had been the peasants outside. They hated Poland, and the prices paid Evens Motors. 219 Spring St.

The Brown of Ivan the Terrible was produced. Alone in an inclosed tent she received the pretender. They were together a long time. Then she emerged and announced to her one-time subjects that the young man was ndeed her supposedly murdered son She identified him beyond the shadow a doubt. So he was crowned ezar all the Russians in June, 1605. At first Demetrius pleased his subjects with his wise and just policies, but hatred of Poland soon inflamed the Russians. They resented his introduction of Polish customs and his leaning toward the Polish religion. His ole were naturally ambitious for to marry a Russian princess, but his, peasant rearing had given him fixed ideas of his own regarding af-fairs of the heart.
